

Comparing quantities

- A
1. I want to have more friends than anybody.
(Quantities of nouns)
 2. There are as many folks at the game as at home. (Quantities of nouns)
 3. I know as much Spanish as the other students. (Quantities of nouns)
 4. Today I ate fewer apples than yesterday.
(Quantities of nouns)
 5. Rose laughs less than her sister. (How often things happen)
 6. This store sells as many books as that one.
(Quantities of nouns)
 7. I don't eat as much chocolate as you.
(Quantities of nouns)
 8. I exercise less than my uncle. (How often things happen)
- B
1. Quiero tener más amigos que nadie.
(Quantities of nouns)
 2. Hay tanta gente en el partido como en casa
(Quantities of nouns)
 3. Yo sé tanto español como los otros.
(Quantities of nouns)
 4. Hoy comí menos manzanas que ayer.
(Quantities of nouns)
 5. Rosalia se ríe más que su hermana. (How often things happen)
 6. Esa tienda vende tantos libros como ese almacén. (Quantities of nouns)
 7. Yo no como tanto chocolate como tú.
(Quantities of nouns)
 8. Yo hago menos ejercicio que mi tío.
(Quantities of nouns)
- C
1. Ramiro gastó tanto dinero como Rosario.
 2. Pili nadó más en la piscina que Armando.
 3. Clara pescó tantos peces en el río como Santi.
 4. Teresita buceó menos en el mar que Miguel.
 5. Javi remó tanto por las tardes como Sabina.
 6. Tico encontró más caracoles en la playa que Silvia.
 7. Viviana exploró tantas cuevas como Jorge.
- D
1. a. Tengo muchas patatas en el plato. No quiero tantas.
b. Tengo mucha agua en el vaso. No quiero tanta.
c. Trabajo mucho. No quiero trabajar tanto.
 2. Tanto agrees in gender and number in (a) and (b), becoming tantas and tanta respectively, because it acts as a pronoun and refers to the noun that is missing (patatas, agua). It does not agree in gender in (c) because it acts as an adverb, so it is invariable. In that case, tanto = so much.